<sup>1</sup> Pre-session: a series of in-person meetings with professors and staff of the university service units. The pre-session includes orientations about requirements for residence in Hungary, health insurance and housing arrangements. The Budget and Finance Office advises on banking arrangements and various payment procedures. Students are also introduced to a range of advisory and counseling services such as career advising and psychological counseling. During this time students complete several individual settling-down tasks, look for rented accommodation (if not housed in the CEU Residence Center), and become familiar with the university settings.

<sup>2</sup> Zero Week: a period for students to get familiar with the academic programs, electives etc. Also, any outstanding issues resulting from settling down in Budapest are dealt with during this week.
